Doctor Fendall, HAVING settled in Augusta, takes the liberty of rendering his services to the public in the various branches of his profession. He hopes from his attention to merit the encouragement of a liberal community. He has taken the house in Reynolds street, four doors below Dr. Smith's, lately occupied by Mr. Thomas Butt's, and either at this place or the corner house just below (where he keeps his office) he may at any time be found.
N. B. I have removed my shop to that lately occupied by Doctor Smith.
