A ROUSING MEETING

Andalusia and Her People Stand Loyal to the Cause of Prohibition

Andalusia, the county seat of Covington is going to stand loyally by the constitutional amendment. The meeting in that city last Friday shows this fact.

This editor was surprised at the unity of sentiment among her citizens, county officials, lawyers, doctors, merchants, contractors, [illegible] and as a whole, [illegible] This means much for prohibition.

[illegible] the proceedings:

Andalusia, Ala., Sept. [illegible]—A meeting of the prohibition forces of Covington county was called [illegible] Court House at [illegible] P. M. by Hon. Morgan H. Jones, County Committeeman, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization.

The Chairman appointed the following as a committee on Nominations: A. E. Powell, C. A. O'Neal, W. A. Campbell, Rev. J. A. Carpenter, M. G. Taylor and J. V. [illegible].

The convention was addressed by Rev. [illegible] and Senator C. E. Reid.

[illegible]

WHEREAS, the liquor traffic [illegible]

[illegible]

Be it resolved, 1st. That we favor the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution of Alabama which prohibits the manufacture, sale and keeping for sale of intoxicating liquors in this state.

2nd. That we contend that the issue and the only issue in this campaign is whether the proposed amendment shall be adopted, and that this issue presents the question of prohibition to the people.

3rd. We condemn the efforts of those who oppose the amendment to inject into this campaign a number of irrelevant issues.

4th. We are not favoring any candidate for office, either State or national.

5th. Believing that all good men will, when they are correctly informed of the issue in this campaign vote for the proposed amendment, we pledge ourselves [illegible]

Where Do You Stand?

Fellow Citizens:—

At a meeting held in Andalusia today there assembled some two hundred and fifty voters all interested in the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama which is to be decided Nov. 26th. Those present were only a few friends of the measure in this county, the different localities being represented.

The meeting being called to order a permanent organization was perfected "The Covington County Pro-Amendment Club" becoming certainly. Enthusiasm for the measure and conversation abounded. Reports from all sections being flattering for the measure.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted, the Club and the entire audience declaring loyal support to the measure, leaving no doubt of one of the greatest fights for the amendment in the county.

There were present Ed. M. Johnson, of the Florala News, and the Opp Messenger was represented, also, each of the papers being for the amendment.

The meeting was composed principally of farmers, with many business men and representatives from all walks and occupations, while several of the Ministers from all parts of the county were there.

A resolution was unanimously adopted authorizing the chair to appoint a central committee, the committee being appointed and consisting of one hundred representative citizens who will co-operate with the committees of the respective beats of the county.

The chair was instructed to appoint a chairman of each beat, and where a beat has more than one voting place, a chairman for each; the chairman for each beat will appoint his committee of not less than three members who will assist him in his territory.

Vigilance goes hand in hand with victory! every friend of prohibition is urged to come to the rescue of the amendment, and cautioned to be conservative, avoiding [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] in the preservation of society, the home and humanity.

The Club is for the proposed amendment, not for the furthering of the political or business interests of any man, firm or institution. It is not for the purpose of threatening or intimidating, but to plead and to appeal to the patriotism of Covington county to aid and assist in securing a place in the organic law of this commonwealth for prohibition, excepting the sale of alcohol for medicinal, scientific, manufacturing and sacramental purposes, as is provided for there.

The amendment will not deprive you of your supply for the home use, for your family and your friends, in social discourse in your castle; neither does it provide directly or indirectly that your home, your premises or your person shall or may be searched. The word search is not in the proposed amendment; neither is the word home in it. It will not deprive or curtail any inalienable or Constitutional right which you now enjoy. Neither will it authorize any man, distiller or brewer and beer, to convert the state, his home or place of business into a saloon or beer joint, or to defy the laws of the land and trample the rights of his neighbors and [illegible] society under foot; nor do I believe that any man in the county would want to do this. I do know that it would be to the interest of the liquor traffic and those interested in the sale in Alabama that the amendment be defeated. Do you want to sell whiskey? If not why not vote for the amendment. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of liquor in Alabama. [illegible] [illegible]. Read the amendment [illegible] take no man's word, and do not be deceived.

Every man should come out square from among the issues: take sides for or against the liquor trade. Can the defeat of of the amendment uphold and safe guard society? Can its adoption do any man or firm harm except those who want to sell the goods?

The Constitution of the United States protects all citizens, securing unto them the rights to be secure in their person, homes, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, that such rights shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or things to be seized, and the constitution of Alabama can never abridge, abrogate or annul the Federal organic law.

The Constitution of the State of Alabama, Article 1, Section 5, declares: "That the people shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and possessions from unreasonable searches or seizures, and that no warrants shall issue to search any place or to seize any person or thing without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation."

The proposed amendment can not alter change or annul the state or federal constitution on the question of searches and seizures. The laws both federal and state for time untold, has provided for search warrants but not in conflict with Constitution. None of the legislature of Alabama could contravene the letter or spirit of the state or Federal Constitution.

Truth crushed to earth will rise again; the people are finding who have been misled. Let us with one strong long pull roll the barrier away and cleanse the body politic of Alabama.

Chairman.

Editor Ed M. Johnson

We are informed that Editor Ed. M. Johnson, of Geneva County, who has been a bitter enemy of Gov. Comer, made a speech before the Constitutional Prohibition League of Geneva County at Hartford last Saturday, in the course of which he rejected as [illegible] the language of Dr. W. B. Williams, of Hartford, in a letter offering Mr. Johnson $500.00 for the use of his paper. Mr. Johnson admitted that he had erred in his opposition to Gov. Comer and said that he would swallow the Governor and his railroad legislation ten thousand times before he would send [illegible] "The Advertiser" McCord and Co., or sell his reputation to the liquor traffic. One by one the friends of good government refuse to fight Prohibition on account of their former opposition to Gov. Comer. Hurrah for Johnson.—The People Ledger.

Comer Pays Tribute.

Gov. B. B. Comer pays this tribute to the dead [illegible] Minnesota: Governor Johnson was personally known to me. I esteemed him as the highest type of an American citizen. Of national reputation and importance, evidencing high ideals, and spectacular accomplishments, he was of great value and the future, no matter what it is true, could easily be prophesied as holding much for him in the way of accomplishment for the good of the people."

Alabama will get something like one hundred million dollars for her cotton crop this year, but unfortunately most of it will be shipped backwards and west to pay for meat, mules, guano, automobiles, etc. If we could just keep this money here for a few years we would have the richest state in the Union.

The high price of farm products is bringing to the farmers a portion of their long delayed reward. It never did seem fair or just that farm labor should be the hardest worked and poorest paid in the world.—Ex.

FROM KANSAS GOVERNOR

He Says Some Things About Prohibition in That State

Your favor of the 12th, inst was duly received and noted. I have received quite a number of inquiries along the lines of your letter and in as much as I am overwhelmed with other matters at this time I am taking the liberty of sending you herewith a copy of letter I have written to another party on this subject, and I trust it will serve your purpose. If I can lend any further service to you do not hesitate to command me.

With much respect, I am,
Very truly yours,
W. R. Stubbs,
Governor.

Dear Sir:

Your valued favor of the 20th, ult. was duly received. However, I have been out of the office so much and my time has been so thoroughly taken up with matters demanding my immediate attention that I haven't been able to give your letter the consideration it deserved.

I trust under the circumstances you will pardon the unusual delay.

You ask for information in regard to the effect of prohibition in our state:

1.—Is it practicable its operation?

I do not think there is any question but what it is. The state and local governments have so long done without revenue from liquor traffic that no one in the public service or [illegible] it it was an inconvenience to do without this revenue. The fact remains, however, there is no doubt that Kansas never was in such flourishing condition.

2.—Does it prohibit?

Prohibition has been successful in 99 per cent of the counties of the state for many years. An illegal license system was maintained in some of our larger cities sanctioned by a false sentiment up to within a few years ago. However, this has been abolished and I am confident that the law is being successfully enforced in nearly every county in the state. Some trouble is experienced in the border counties and settlements of foreigners who have so long been accustomed to the use of liquor that they consider it a vested right. However, as fast as such instances are brought to the attention of the officers the places are [illegible] closed and the operators dealt with according to law and they are unable to operate with any degree of success or satisfaction to themselves.

From the reply of the business men of Kansas City, Kansas to the brewers charging the crime of drunkenness has increased, I quote from Police Judge of that city:

"It is true that the police court dockets are as full now as they were when the joints were open. That is because the police did not do their duty when the joints were open. If they had, four to five times as many persons as now could have been arrested for drunkenness. 90 per cent of the men who appear in my court are arrested near the state line which divides Kansas City, Kansas and Kansas City, Missouri, where there are hundreds of saloons within a short distance. In the greater area of this city where 90,000 of the 100,000 live very few drunken persons are ever seen".

3—Has its practical operation added to the material wealth of your state?

The fact that Kansas now stands for a number of years past has been one of the most prosperous states in the Union I think is conclusive evidence that it has added material wealth to our state. Kansas is a land of plenty and nowhere on the globe exists a more sober, happy and prosperous people as this and a multitude of other facts on this compel student of government the world over to search deeper for the causes of our abounding prosperity and the most of these students have correctly divined that the prohibition law and more particularly its enforcement has had much to do with the present fabulous conditions in the Sunflower state.

4—Has its practical operation diminished crime, pauperism and insanity?

From a report of our State board of control I gather the information that 57 counties had of a total of 105 had no inmates in poor-houses during the whole of the year of 1907; 65 counties had no insane inmates; 54 counties had no feeble minded inmates; 96 counties had no inebriate inmates; 92 counties had no children in asylum. The total population Jan. 1st, 1908 in all county farms in Kansas was 705 souls and 260 [illegible] and these in a total population of 1,608,[illegible] inhabitants. In the same year 54 counties of our 105 counties had no prisoners in the penitentiary; 22 other counties sent one each.

Nearly all of the prisoners sent to the penitentiary come from border counties where liquor is forced in upon us from other states and where our law is to some extent violated. The total number of resident Kansans in the penitentiary at the time the report was made was 496 while 563 had not gained citizenship in Kansas.

Again quoting from business men's report of Kansas City, Kansas:

"Saloons have decreased 90 per cent; the state tax levy has been reduced more than one half and bank deposits increased 37 per cent since the joints were closed; the city treasury is in a prosperous condition and no bankrupt or crime behind [illegible] to bottom."

Trusting this [illegible] the information you desire, I remain,

Very respectfully yours,
Governor.

SPEECH

of Editor Johnson at Coffee Springs on Sept. 10

As per previous announcement Ed. M. Johnson, editor of the Banner Ledger delivered a speech at Coffee Springs Saturday evening, in the open air declaiming the proposed amendment to the constitution of Alabama. To the credit of the remarks be said, in substance to about 200 a mixed and twenty-five people:

Ladies and gentlemen: I appear before you this evening to discuss one of the most vital questions, religiously, morally, socially, commercially and politically, all combined, and in separate, that has ever been presented to a civilized nation for its adoption or rejection, a question that effects every man woman and child in this great State and nation; a question like the settlement of which must mean either contentment and happiness or misery and woe—the whisky question. I am here to plead with you who differ from my position to weigh the question well before you cast your vote in November. I am here to tell you why I say this, and to try to induce you to change your mind, if possible. However, after my plea is made and after a careful reasoning in your mind you decide that you are right and I am wrong, then, as for myself, I leave the case in the hands of you and your God, conscious of the fact that I, in my humble way, performed my duty in trying to point out to you what I conceive to be the path of duty in which every loyal citizen of Alabama should walk who loves his family, his home and his cause; and who is anxiously looking even beyond these to a better resting place in the shade beyond the River.

The question, I say, is whiskey. This is a fight almost to the death to ascertain whether or not Alabama is to revert to the bar-room—the river of whose blood has hardly ceased to flow) or whether she will write in her constitution the words which come to her glorious future words which will cause the very gates of heaven to stand ajar that the angels of the Almighty may look down and smile in benediction on those whose votes went as a help to write them there words which will make the pages of the second constitution of this great state glisten and shine like the sparkling and dancing dewdrop on the morning lily.

This, my friends, is what I came to Coffee Springs to get you to help me do.

I was in Montgomery and Birmingham this week and I saw two conventions. Let me tell you something about them. The one which I attended on Wednesday was held in the Capital City of your state, Montgomery. This meeting had been thoroughly advertised in every nook and corner of the state. Reduced rates had been secured; many special coaches had been tacked on to the regular trains running out over the various railroads from Montgomery; the appeal went forth to thunderous tones for help; help to save Alabama from the awful destruction threatened by a certain band of people who were maliciously and with malice aforethought, attempting to destroy the last vestige of human liberty as long enjoyed by our people. Those my words.

Some friends and defenders of the morality of your homes, and be lovers of this human liberty?

Are your real friends, least so who you go during the day of the storm and stress and the hostilities of this world, all of which you have here, and secure a home eternal in our Kingdom. If you will look closely and carefully you will know what we have said to you about the open saloon and the open bar-room. Now, I am not going to say that there are not some good men who are in favor of the open saloon and the open bar-room, but I am going to say that there are not many good men who are in favor of the open saloon and the open bar-room. I am going to say that there are not many good men who are in favor of the open saloon and the open bar-room. I am going to say that there are not many good men who are in favor of the open saloon and the open bar-room.

Now, I am not going to say that there are not some

To all Lovers of the Revised Sacred Harp

This is to notify you that a majority of the committee for this book came together last Sunday at Oakland grove and we took a vote on many things as we took except that all books published hereafter, all the songs shall have four marks and except in some cases that is to say, so that it will not require those who buy this book now, to have to buy again in order to have books that same will not have these messages.

There will be no changes in keys or time nor only written or four marks and the subscriber don't remove. I trust this will give you all satisfaction and that we will continue to sing these good songs as long as we live.

Very truly yours,
B. F. FOYKER.

"Snappy"

The man called the manager, over on the shirt to take advantage of a remarkable opportunity may be had at grocers now. This kind of man will take no conversion in conversation of the matter he wears. To be aware of endless such chances when made to your individual measure by who have a great reputation for producing "snappy" tailoring. This agency is not only an institution, it is a "live" institution. Let us explain how we will make a fit suit for you. Let us explain how we will save you a series of new Fall fashions made with same snappy "ah so and ah so" effects. The tailoring we are showing will fairly "make your mouth water with desire." We shall welcome you and whether you order or not.

Very Enjoyable

The ice cream supper at the home of Mr. Barry Tuesday night was a very enjoyable affair. First and last there were more than a hundred present to enjoy the occasion. The crowd was gotten up for the benefit of our southside Methodist sunday school, which, by the way, is growing in attendance and interest at each meeting. About $30 dollars was realized from the supper and the flower girls deserve special mention of their diligence in making the event a success. Also much praise of the credit should be accorded the faithful superintendent, J. B. Beasley, and the good ladies who so kindly assisted.

Miss Oscar Smith left Monday for her home in Lincoln, Co., after having spent some time very pleasantly with her sister Mrs. Mrs. J. N. Hare.

Great Legal Battle to be Waged by Roads.

The assertion of recent decisions—upheld by the supreme court of Georgia, in an opinion handed down Saturday in which the state suffered reversal, was sustained—that no railroad "the transit rate of the greatest legal tender ever issued by the railroad into any equitable estate, authority. Already correspondence has been issued to take the matters in the federal courts, and just until the United States supreme court passes upon the question of the constitutionality of the rate to be in question or ended.

If the decision of the Georgia supreme court is upheld in the federal tribunals, the railroads will have to pay close to $100,000,000 annually in excess of dollars. Thus the decision is rate-fixing and under it the railroads will be compelled to forfeit care to officers from demand of traffic questions in the way of doing other changes.

The Tailor-Dressed Man Needs
No Card of Introduction

You are always assured of at least a respectful hearing if your appearance is the appearance of a gentleman. There is no deference paid to custom-cut tailor-made clothes. It is simply the American way of showing respect for all things well done. The stranger who manifests the pains and the pride to have his clothes built especially for him, to fit his body and his personality--at least gives evidence of self respect above the ordinary.

MAKE UP YOUR MIND

that you are going to wear STOKES CLOTHES this fall for the certainty of being well-dressed in correct style for the assurance of buying new weaves, for shape keeping high-grade tailoring, for real economy.

No clothier will offer you better Clothes than Ours.

Every dollar they must be in the goods. In these days of advancing prices of wool and of fabrics, the temptations to cheapen quality are strong. You will find many lower priced clothes but none really equal in value. The remarkable feature of is that it relieves you of all risks and uncertainties in your clothes buying. We shoulder the entire responsibility for the fit, the correctness, the good taste and wearing quality of your clothes.

We guarantee

every garment, whether a suit or overcoat to fit you perfectly for it is made especially to your order to fit 20 of your body measures. We GUARANTEE every seam and stitch and more, we GUARANTEE your garment to satisfy you not only when you first put it on but as long as you wear it. Decide today that your fall suit or overcoat will be made by

Stokes the Tailor

Don't forget that we clean, press and repair them as long as they last FREE of any cost to you and that we appreciate your business
